Invitation

Terror, Torts, and Telecom:
The Supreme Court's 2003–2004 Term

Tuesday, June 29, 2004, 3:00–5:00 p.m.
Wohlstetter Conference Center, Twelfth Floor, AEI
1150 Seventeenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036

Sometimes wrong, often imperious, but never boring: the Supreme Court has all but finished another year of energetic interventions in the nation's business, from the war on terror to campaign finance laws to deconstructing the Pledge of Allegiance.

Please join Viet Dinh, former U.S. assistant attorney general for legal policy; Notre Dame law professor Richard W. Garnett; veteran appellate litigator Edward W. Warren; and the Federalism Project's Michael S. Greve for an afternoon of spirited analysis.

2:45 p.m. Registration

3:00 Panelists: VIET D. DINH, Georgetown University Law Center
RICHARD W. GARNETT, Notre Dame Law School
EDWARD W. WARREN, Kirkland & Ellis

Moderator: MICHAEL S. GREVE, AEI Federalism Project

5:00 Adjournment and Reception

I will attend the Supreme Court event on Tuesday, June 29.
